He has become a lavo dealer. The demand for children s labour often resembles in form the inquiries for negro slaves, such as were formerly to be read among the advertisements in American journals. My attention, says an English factory inspector, was drawn to an advertisement in the local paper of one of the most important manufacturing towns of my district, of which the following is a copy: Wanted, 12 to 20 young pre-sons, not younger than what can pass for 13 years. Wages, 4 shillings a week. Apply C. 1 The phase what can pass for 13 years, has reference to the fact, that by the Factory Act, children under 13 years may work only 6 hours. A surgeon official appointed must certify their age. The manufacturer, therefore, asks for children who look as if they were...
